Thought this might be useful example to study for people who would like to be able to write rich text using formats other than QTF.

https://github.com/BornTactical/MarkdownFormatter

It uses PEGTL for the parsing (The Markdown format requires recursion) so you'll have to create a separate project and include it. I wouldn't call it general purpose or even complete. It has a very specific use to a project I'm working on right now so it only supports a subset of Markdown.
