Fudamin could you add 'yesterday messages' button? I've found today messages very useful but very often I just need to check if anything was written yesterday. Or add a combo with items ' show messages 1 day old', '2 days old' and so on...

BTW: In user mode tables are still no resized to the full window width (when user is not logged in they are, but with this ugly colors..)

use Message Navigator. You can have messages from any interval.

Colors is a question of taste - that's why I've made a choice of Themes in User CP->Settings .

Do you mean the resizing doesn't work in that ugly gray mode?

BTW, which browser do you use?

Thanks! (but having direct access to the button would be nice..)

Sure, but I think that the colors used in non personalized layout are out of 'most people' taste.

No, tables are 100% width of screen width. In my own mode they aren't

>BTW, which browser do you use?
Opera 9.0 TP1

Regarding "nice look". On my firefox I have much more elegant look than MS Internet Explorer because of fonts and borders. I guess the same problems exist in Opera. But I think in Opera you can easily have automatic login as in Firefox?

Regarding extra buttons or drop down menus. For the time beeing you should bear as it is...

I would still be happier to have that simple default FUD look as default, not to scare newcomers.

Well, "arius" look made huge step ahead recently and is now a good alternative. But I can imagine some newcomers can be still scared a little bit by it:)

I have even changed "default to default" silently (I the hope you just forgot to do so), but obviously you have noticed and changed it back

Mirek

P.S.: I am using firefox..

When you switched that grey look new users registration figures dropped!

I noticed that and switched the look back and they started growing again.

And all people, which I know and showed the design, support it.

Also, I placed a link in fudforum creators website as design example and we are getting clicks from there. So, I don't want to force them to register to see the design.

BTW, my suggestion is to start topics with clearly defined problems.

Fudadmin could you also align 'harnesing the real power of c++' to the right?. And please get the blue gradient of the logo back in default look mode (I have default set in my preferences page)

BTW: If the white layout is the default layout why the default forum look for unregistered users is in those strange (green and brown) colors?

BTW2: Message navigator is non intuitive imho. What is the meaning of 'newer than'?. I think this should be rearranged to:

Messages from date_combo to date_combo Go

Messages from last numer_combo days Go
