Well, recently I have noticed that we have up to 20 guests in the forum almost constantly.

I would like to know the answer to above question. Maybe some of newcomers (e.g. fabio) could tell us whether he was lurking for long time before registering.

Maybe the forum is already good source of information without actually registering? (Search...)

Just curious.

I must admit that I regularly peek at the forum without logging in. I'm just too lazy to do that.

The same for me, I only log in when I have to say something.

I was going to post and say "I'm usually logged in when reading", but it told me I wasn't logged in. Embarrassing but true...
