Subject: U++ now in namespace Upp.....
Posted by mirek on Mon, 18 Dec 2006 23:45:29 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

...means you need to add

using namespace Upp;

into your headers (right after U++ includes).

Alternatively, you can use "NONAMESPACE" flag in main config.

Macro UPP is defined to Upp in normal mode and to empty text in NONAMESPACE mode. That is to resolve this problem:

void Foo::Font(UPP::Font fnt)

Mirek