Despite preliminary tests, it seems we have some (maybe minor) issues with Vista:

- UAC dialog when starting TheIDE (perhaps we are doing some win32 op that Vista does not like)

- Problem with TheIDE staying foreground

I will not have Vista until new desktop (1-2 weeks), so help is appreciated.

As for UAC, I would start the testing by deactivating parts of GUI_APP_MAIN of theide - e.g. put preliminary return at the beginning and then start moving it down to find out which code does require UAC autorizathion.
