Thanks... I was using the middle-click to paste all the time...

obviously with no results. Since I make this error in Windows all the time,too, why not implement this useful feature in it?

(a little OT, could default forum text-field be stretched to automatically fill the entire horizontal space? I can't say why but I feel a little uncomfortable writing in this restricted box)

Ciao,
David

Well, I was thinking about it, but I am not yet sure it is a good idea. If nothing else, my "etalons" (Openoffice, Firefox) do not do it. Also, Win32 does not have system infrastructure for doing so (but we can build one).

I'm talking about the textbox inside which you write responses in the forum. At least using Firefox, if I want to have the box extended I have to click on the right arrow in the upper right corner of the box several times. As for reading posts, visualization is OK. Maybe it's a matter of FUD preferences, I'll have a look at it.
