Hi,

I often find myself programming without internet connection. It would be nice to have U++ Manuals on my HD in that case. Is there a version that I can download, chm, pdf, or just bundled html? I could possibly download each individual tutorial, but that would be a pain. Any suggestions?

Thanks.

F1 in TheIDE should contain everything what's available here on web in "Manual" section?
Did you check it?

mr_ped, thanks for pointing this out. Documentation available through F1 contains everything available on the web and more. I will use it from now on.
