Thanks!

Anyway, perhaps it would be better to place all announcements into single thread? 365 announcements per year would be too much imo

A note on config files : if you did run previous svn version, after build you should move some config file around to have all work (Linux version, don't know on windows).

So :

- 1) DON'T run theide devel (you can, but it won't find config files)
- 2) Create manually a folder called .upp in your home dir (mkdir ~/.upp); pay attention to the dot !
- 3) Move the '.ide' folder in your home dir inside .upp one (leave the .theide folder as it is, that's for the stable upp)
- 4) rename it as 'ide' (just strip the initial dot)

That's all, running theide devel should bring your configs back as usual.

Ciao
