Hi,

How can I use U++ without TheIDE in Code::Blocks??
I didn't manage to find the .lib file to include.

You can find a very long discussion here:

But you should really give TheIDE a try , it is an environment that leads to very good productivity.

Yes, I saw that TheIDE is normally a very nice IDE, but I need only the printing class of U++, because the other parts a done with other libs.

Thanks for the link, I will read it now
