Today I tried to install 602RC exe, and I forget to change path, so I hit Esc immediately after Enter several times.

Only "C:\upp" directory was created, and than the installer crashed after short while.

In the buglog file there was something about invalid source.

Thanks.

Is it worth fixing for the final release? (It would probably mean repeating RC).

I guess I will fix it for the next release...

IMHO no (unless you have to fix something else and I would be still in doubt).

I think it will be a perfect target for the 7-zip installer upgrade, than it will make lot more sense, as the whole install procedure will need some extensive testing anyway.
