

---

Subject: Disabling anti-aliasing

Posted by same on Tue, 24 Jun 2008 09:48:21 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Hi,

I don't like anti-aliasing, it can be disabled at all somehow? In ~/.fonts.conf and /etc/conf.d "antialias" is disabled, in GTK-based applications antialiasing is disabled too, TheIDE is the only app which "insist" to looking ugly

---

---

Subject: Re: Disabling anti-aliasing

Posted by unodgs on Tue, 24 Jun 2008 09:53:40 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

same wrote on Tue, 24 June 2008 05:48Hi,

I don't like anti-aliasing, it can be disabled at all somehow? In ~/.fonts.conf and /etc/conf.d "antialias" is disabled, in GTK-based applications antialiasing is disabled too, TheIDE is the only app which "insist" to looking ugly

I thought I'm alone. I don't like freetype2 anti-alias too. I always use ms fonts without aa. Just wanted to share my feelings about that don't know the fix.

---