TheIDE 806.r125 built from new revision 315 sources: the same old problem with big system fonts. It was solved some builds ago and TheIDE shown normal system fonts, but it looks like it appeared again.
Platform: KDE 3.5.8, XFree86, FreeBSD 6.3

Please check.

CtrlLib/ChGtk.cpp line 615 should be:

```
String font_name = GtkStyleString("gtk-font-name");
```

Do you have String there?

No. It's strange, I've got:
const char *font_name = ...;

Does it mean this is old version source? I wonder how could this happen after svn update...

I see the file .../bazaar/UnitTest++/COPYING has been deleted in SVN.

This is not legal, don't delete it please, it has to be there to fulfill the license.

Edit:

(or explain me please why we can delete it without breaking the license)

COPYING files are not deleted, AFAIK... they were just renamed with first capital letter and following uncapitalized, due to FAT problem on Mirek side.

BTW... who does still use FAT filesystem ? After last BIG crash some 7 years ago, I dropped it completely from everywhere...

Max

EDIT : I think that this change of letter case will bring big headaches....

I'm sure the "COPYING", nor "Copying" file is not there.

(https://upp.svn.sourceforge.net/svnroot/upp/trunk/bazaar/Uni tTest++/COPYING I mean, this is the current trunk, right?)

I will commit them back, and Mirek should solve his problems with obsolete file system ... maybe operating system too grin.

edit:

I will not commit them, I'm getting 403 Forbidden, I will look into that later. :/
