Subject: What about adding comments to the examples in the wiki?
Posted by santiago on Mon, 06 Mar 2006 15:42:22 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

so people can add comments in the sourcecode or clarify some of it. Even if u++ is easyer than anything else, the lack of comments in the sources make it pretty hard to read to someone who is not an advanced c++ programmer.

Well, it's just an idea.

[topic title edited by fudadmin...]

Subject: Re: What about adding comments to the examples in the wiki?
Posted by fudadmin on Mon, 06 Mar 2006 16:18:52 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

What if to create a separate repository with comments? Because how do you update source changes in wiki?

Subject: Re: What about adding comments to the examples in the wiki?
Posted by santiago on Mon, 06 Mar 2006 16:25:46 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Don't know if there is a way to do that with all the code, but what i was saying is just to do it with the examples, not all the sources.

Subject: Re: What about adding comments to the examples in the wiki?
Posted by mirek on Mon, 06 Mar 2006 16:31:09 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

santiago wrote on Mon, 06 March 2006 11:25Don't know if there is a way to do that with all the code, but what i was saying is just to do it with the examples, not all the sources.

There already exists effort about documenting examples.

E.g.:

http://upp.sourceforge.net/examples$uppweb$HelloWorld$en-us. html

I think nothing prevents the community to continue doing so.

Personally, I prevent this style of explanation to comments in the code, however I am open to commented examples.

Plain english: If you want to document examples, do it and post results here;)

Mirek

Subject: Re: What about adding comments to the examples in the wiki?
Posted by fudadmin on Mon, 06 Mar 2006 16:59:16 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

luzr wrote on Mon, 06 March 2006 16:31

Plain english: If you want to document examples, do it and post results here;)

Mirek

E.g in "extra libraries" category.

btw, forums, usually, have better searching capabilities. And you can see immidiately all new postings. That's why I don't like wiki's anymore...
