Hi,

This comes up a lot at every compilation. There is a find next error function (f4) but its finds warnings too.
1. it does not do what it promises.
2. Often I am interested in errors only. If I have a lot of warnings.. so it takes time to find errors.

My request is that there should be an option so that f4 work differetly or there should be another functionality that finds error only in the output of the compiler.
