Maybe we need to make a deb-repository?
Its easy to do with apt-ftparchive even without installing anything special on the server, the server need only static http.

Hi Sergey!

Actually I'm working on this already. I have almost finished script to create debian source package and upload it to Launchpad.net. There it is built (i386 and amd64) and published in public PPA (Personal Package Archive) - which is in plain words just an ubuntu repository. With a little work, it's possible to use this PPA from Debian as well. I expect to finish this within two weeks or so.

Regards,
Honza
