Hello all

Many times are posted problems related to outdated sources.

Last years I have been testing privately projects of some U++ users and the cause of many of their problems are:

- They do not use latest sources
- (Worst) They used modified versions of some U++ sources

I really advise you to update your sources very frequently or daily.

If your are going to deliver a project to a customer tomorrow, i would perhaps delay the update but, this would be the only situation to delay the update .
