Hey, I've just been looking into this framework for a little while and would love to use it for a few projects. I was just wondering if mac support is still being continued and how it's coming along if it is? The last post in here is a few months old.

In fact, it looks we are pretty close, thanks to work fudamin has done. I believe that MacOSX will be the focus of the next cycle.

Wow I was looking in the wrong place. That's really exciting! I'll definitely have some fun with it as soon as it comes out! I'm glad the community seems pretty strong too.

Thanks Mirek! I am also very glad to hear that. I switched to Mac a couple of years ago, and the thing I miss the most is being able to use U++ to develop quick and useful desktop apps.

Keep up the good work!
