Ctrl+LeftButtonClick in the latest builds works only within the current(basic) package, if you click on the functions related to other package - nothing happens.

It seems like current parser is still under development by Mirek. Many features just stopped working, some of them even make TheIDE throw an exception (i.e. alphabetic sorting of parsed elements). We will likely have to start excessive testing right after Mirek says new parser is complete and successfully embedded into TheIDE. :)
