Pressing Ctrl-G for go to line is a bit awkward.

It brings you to the input box where you enter your search term, which is fine, then you press enter and it goes to the line, which is fine, but the code browser is still in go to line mode mode, displaying the line I entered.

A second Ctrl-G restores the state. It would be better if pressing enter would restore the state and a second Ctrl-G would bring up a new search...
